Islam is a major religion in Southeast Asia with Indonesian Muslims comprising the largest Muslim population in the world. Events and developments since 11 September 2001 have added greater attention to Islam and its adherents in this part of the world. This general survey of Islam in Southeast Asia is intended to inform, explain and update readers about the more significant aspects of Islam in Southeast Asia then and now. These include the following: the geographical origins and sources by which the faith spread in this region; the social, economic and political profiles of the Muslim communities; relations between Muslims and non-Muslims and between Muslims and the state; the strands and trends that shape the role of Islam and the Muslims in the national body politic; and the challenges confronting Muslims in confronting the vicissitudes of their lives in this era of rapid change characterized by modernization, capitalism, secularization and globalization. The discussion will begin with an overview of the broad picture of Islam and the Muslims in the region as a whole, covering both Muslim majority and Muslim minority countries. This will be followed by case study analysis of Islam and the Muslims in individual countries: Indonesia, Malaysia, Brunei, Singapore, Thailand, Philippines, Myanmar, Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos. Given the difficulty of writing on such a complex and contentious topic, this book attempts to present the subject matter in a manner that is sufficiently objective to scholars and yet simple and accessible enough to be readily understood by ordinary readers.

The second edition of this student friendly textbook explores the origins, major features and lasting influence of the Islamic tradition. It traces the development of Muslim beliefs and practices against the background of social and cultural contexts extending from North Africa to South and Southeast Asia. Fully revised for the second edition, with completely new opening and closing chapters considering key issues facing Islam in the 21st century, it focuses greater attention on everyday practices, the role of women in Muslim societies and offers additional material on Islam in America. It includes detailed chronologies, tables summarizing key information, useful maps and diagrams and many more illustrations.

Based on hitherto untapped source materials, this book charts the history of Muslim missionary activity in London from 1912 when the first Indian Muslim missionaries arrived in London until 1944. During this period a unique community was forged out of British converts and native Muslims from various parts of the world which focused itself around a purpose-built mosque in woking and later the first mosque to open in london in 1924 arguing that an understanding of muslim mission in this period needs to place such activity in the context of colonial encounter islam and britain provides a background narrative into why muslim missionary activity in london was part of a variety of strategies to engage with european expansion and overzealous christian missionary activity in india ron geaves draws on research undertaken in india and pakistan where the ahmadiya missionaries have kept extensive archives of this period which until now have been unavailable to scholars unique in providing an account of islamic missionary work in britain from the islamic perspective islam and britain adds to our knowledge and understanding of british muslim history and makes an important contribution to the literature concerned with islamic missiology
